LOGAN — Members of the Hocking County Bar Association and the Ohio State Legal Services will conduct their second free legal clinic July 10 from 5:30 p.m. to 7:30 p.m. at Trinity United Methodist Church at 105 W. Hunter St.

The clinic is free to all Hocking County residents that meet the income requirements of Ohio State Legal Services which are roughly 250% of poverty level. The attorneys providing legal advice are all members of the Hocking County Bar Association who are donating their time free of all charge. At the clinic advice can be rendered on all kinds of civil matters. Generally most of the matters on which advice is given have been things like family law or domestic relations, landlord and tenant matters or consumer credit matters. However, all other civil matters can be addressed.
