Free legal assistance for low-income Clevelanders

Posted by Donna J. Miller September 12, 2007 12:55PM
Categories: FYI

Low-income residents can get free advice from licensed attorneys on Saturday at the St. Martin de Porres Center, 1264 East 123rd St. in Cleveland.

The Legal Aid Society will be there from 9:45 a.m. to noon with volunteer attorneys from the Baker Hostetler firm.

They can not assist with criminal cases, but will handle civil problems, like divorce, bankruptcy and tenant-landlord disputes. They can help families battle predatory lenders and rental centers and get public benefits, the earned income tax credit and special education in public schools.

For more information, reach the Legal Aid Society at www.laslev.org or 216-687-1900.
