

THE PLAIN DEALER

Brain Gain

Monday, July 25, 2005

Name: Sheila Siegel

Age: 34

Occupation: Jones Day pro bono fellow, coordinator, Volunteer Lawyers Program, The Legal Aid Society of Cleveland

From: "I moved to Cleveland after 5½ years in Washington, D.C., where I worked for Equal Justice Works [a national public interest law organization], and was a career counselor at American University Washington College of Law." Grew up in Clearwater/St. Petersburg, Fla.

Lives in: Downtown Cleveland

Best part about NEO: "Two things: The people - really great people in NEO. And the legal community, an incredibly welcoming and giving community in NEO."

Least favorite: "Snow in April."

What she would change: "More parks on, and access to, Lake Erie. It is a beautiful and under-used part of this city."

Why she's here: "Fell in love with a Clevelander."

Forget brain drain - BusinessMonday wants to spotlight brain gain! If you've recently moved to Northeast Ohio, drop us a line at bizmon@plaind.com or 1801 Superior Ave., Cleveland 44114. For resources for newcomers, visit www.cleveland.com/youngprofessionals.

© 2005 The Plain Dealer

© 2005 cleveland.com All Rights Reserved.